

Strong executive HR credibility with clearest path in large institutions; fractional/interim work possible but requires partnership approach due to business development gap

→ RECOMMENDED STRATEGY

Primary focus: Pursue CHRO or senior HR leadership roles in large financial institutions or multinational corporations where credibility is immediate and income floor is met. Secondary: Explore interim/fractional CHRO opportunities only through partnerships with PE firms or interim executive platforms that provide client pipeline and reduce business development burden. Consulting transition requires employed bridge role within consultancy to build delivery track record while maintaining income.

⊗ MAIN TENSION

Strong executive credibility versus financial pressure and business development capability gap. Polina has clear CHRO-level profile strength, but her 5-month runway and $5k minimum income requirement make higher-risk paths (fractional, consulting) difficult to execute without bridge income or client pipeline proof.

DIRECTION OVERVIEW

#1 Senior HR Executive — Multinational or Regulated Enterprise

Credible now high confidence direct AI D3

#2 Interim or Fractional CHRO

Secondary option medium confidence direct AI D3

Senior HR Executive — Multinational or Regulated Enterprise

#1

Credible now high confidence direct employment AI D3 · Durable

Direct credibility from managing 80+ HR professionals across 11 cities and multiple business lines with matrix accountability structure identical to target organizations

Risk: Geographic experience concentrated outside US may create perception gap for US-based senior roles; international experience may be valued differently than US-specific HR practice knowledge

FIRST VALIDATION STEP

Conduct informational interviews with 3-5 CHROs or executive recruiters in target sectors (banking competitors, large multinationals, PE firms) to validate market positioning, compensation expectations, and geographic experience perception

TARGET ROLE EXAMPLES

CHRO or Chief People Officer Regional HR Leader (multi-country accountability)
Senior HRBP or People Partner Leader HR Operations or Shared Services Leader HR Transformation Leader

WHY IT FITS

- Direct credibility from managing 80+ HR professionals across 11 cities and multiple business lines with matrix accountability structure identical to target organizations
- Board governance and Remuneration Committee chair experience demonstrates readiness for C-suite and board-level HR leadership
- Deep banking regulatory expertise and HR risk/control management provide strong fit for financial services and other regulated industries

MAIN RISKS

- Geographic experience concentrated outside US may create perception gap for US-based senior roles; international experience may be valued differently than US-specific HR practice knowledge
- Single-employer 20+ year tenure may raise adaptability questions with some organizations despite strong transformation leadership evidence

Interim or Fractional CHRO

#2

Secondary option medium confidence direct fractional AI D3 · Durable

Interim CHRO Israel experience provides direct proof of ability to step into C-suite leadership role on short notice and deliver transformation outcomes

Risk: No experience operating outside large institutional environment; adaptability to smaller, faster, resource-constrained PE portfolio companies or startups is unproven despite transformation leadership evidence

FIRST VALIDATION STEP

Conduct informational interviews with 5-10 fractional CHROs or interim executives (especially those who transitioned from corporate to fractional) to understand business model reality, client acquisition timeline, income ramp pattern, and partnership platform options

TARGET ROLE EXAMPLES

Interim CHRO for PE portfolio company during transition or professionalisation
Fractional CHRO for multiple growth-stage companies (portfolio model)
Transformation-focused interim HR leader during merger, restructuring, or exit prep

What to do in the next 30 days

- 1 Conduct informational interviews with 3-5 CHROs or executive recruiters in target sectors (banking competitors, large multinationals, PE firms) to validate market positioning, compensation expectations, and geographic experience perception
- 2 Conduct informational interviews with 5-10 fractional CHROs or interim executives (especially those who transitioned from corporate to fractional) to understand business model reality, client acquisition timeline, income ramp pattern, and partnership platform options

EVIDENCE TO BUILD

- Geographic experience concentrated outside US may create perception gap for US-based senior roles; international experience may be valued differently than US-specific HR practice knowledge
- Single-employer 20+ year tenure may raise adaptability questions with some organizations despite strong transformation leadership evidence
- Executive compensation expectations from banking background may limit accessible opportunities outside top-tier financial institutions or similar-scale multinationals

DECISIONS TO MAKE

- Strong executive credibility versus financial pressure and business development capability gap. Polina has clear CHRO-level profile strength, but her 5-month runway and $5k minimum income requirement make higher-risk paths (fractional, consulting) difficult to execute without bridge income or client pipeline proof.

Your Input Signals

Career anchors / motivation pattern

SIGNAL: Interim CHRO Israel role demonstrates ability to step into senior leadership vacuum and deliver at C-suite level

INTERPRETATION: Your strongest career signals are experience-based. Directions lean on demonstrated competence.

Financial reality

SIGNAL: Proceed with caution — this direction has credibility or financial considerations to resolve.

INTERPRETATION: Some directions may take longer than a typical runway to become financially stable.

Work model preference

SIGNAL: employment and fractional roles appear most realistic.

INTERPRETATION: Multiple work models appear across your directions, suggesting flexibility.

Constraints

SIGNAL: If targeting US-based roles, invest in US employment law overview training or certification to address knowledge gap and signal market adaptation

INTERPRETATION: Active constraints limit which directions are immediately viable.

Credibility assets

SIGNAL: Interim CHRO Israel role demonstrates ability to step into senior leadership vacuum and deliver at C-suite level

INTERPRETATION: These are the experience signals that buyers or employers are most likely to recognise.

Missing evidence

SIGNAL: No significant missing evidence identified.

INTERPRETATION: The available evidence was sufficient to assess all directions.

CONFIDENCE AND LIMITATIONS

ADDITIONAL CAVEATS

- AI and people analytics fluency is not evident in profile; this may be competitive disadvantage in technology-forward organizations and should be addressed through learning if targeting those environments